Take some time to (re)discover your roots!

Recovery is a journey of self-discovery and personal growth. This journey starts in the community, where roots run deep.

At Roots Recovery, we view treatment for substance use and mental illness through the lens of social justice. For many, social injustice and oppression fuel the cycle of addiction and pain. Those experiences, and the ripple effects they have on the family and the community, must be explored and addressed during the treatment process to allow the healing process to begin. This process is a core principle of our recovery philosophy, and we incorporate it in every aspect of our care.

Roots Recovery also aims to enrich the communities we serve, and we’re committed to honoring the traditions and values of those communities. Building a relationship with you is our top priority, as we believe that meaningful connections to other like-minded individuals are the foundation of recovery. Strengthening the quality of our relationship, and helping you build a broader network of recovery support will support the change process, and move you closer to your wellness goals.

For that reason, we’ve built a recovery program with one goal in mind: to help our clients build the strong roots they need to thrive!

Our services are designed to allow each person the opportunity to define their own recovery, and create a path forward that highlights their own personal strengths, goals, and needs. Start your recovery journey at Roots, Where Recovery Grows!

Comprehensive Assessment, Treatment & Engagement Services for Adults and Adolescents

- Person-Centered
- Trauma-Informed
- Recovery-Oriented
- Culturally-Responsive

We offer intensive outpatient services for adults and adolescents of any gender, and their families. Many of our clients have co-occurring substance use and mental health disorders, and receive services for both concurrently.

We also offer assessments, treatment coordination, peer support and wellness services to help prepare for treatment, and ongoing recovery management support afterward. No matter your experience or challenges, you can find a solution and a home at Roots Recovery!
